Nassau TRACT Teacher Center Invites Parents to a Lively and Informative Discussion on How to Improve Your Child's Success in School

Are you struggling with homework demands?
Are you concerned over state assessments?

Interested in creating a successful environment for your child's learning? Then this evening is designed for you. This workshop is geared for parents who want to improve their child's reading and study habits. During this informative workshop, parents will receive practical skills that they can implement within their household to improve their child's success in school. Reading strategies that improve reading comprehension levels will be introduced and practiced within the workshop.

Audrey Gottlieb, Adolescent Literacy Coach, has worked in a number of private and public schools coaching teachers and parents on a variety of educational philosophies that include, Differentiated Instruction, Reading and Writing Workshops and Formative Assessment.

Audrey has a B.A. in English from SUNY Albany and a Masters in Secondary Education with a concentration in English from Fordham University.
