Presents a Conference on

Culturally Responsive Education
Featuring
Dr. Eddie Fergus

As Executive Director of the Metropolitan Center for Urban Education, Dr. Fergus also oversees the center's Technical Assistance Center on Disproportionality. TACD focuses on building cultural competence and leadership development.

Keynote address by Dr. Eddie Fergus will address the common causes of disproportionality which include the quality of curricular and instructional supports, intervention services for struggling students and predominate cultural beliefs.

Afternoon session will focus on Culturally Responsive Education an introductory workshop that uses both Gloria Ladson-Billings' eight principles of culturally responsive education and Enid Lee's stages towards multicultural education as the framework to encourage personal and professional growth in the area of cultural competence.
